Encroachment by 'followers' of Asaram removed in Navsari village

Express News Service
Surat, August 20

AUTHORITIES REMOVED unauthorised structures allegedly erected by followers of self-styled jailed godman Asaram on government land in Navsari district on Wednesday. This was the second time that a demolition exercise was carried out on the said land, after 2013, officials said.

The officials said the encroachment was situated on the banks of the seacoast near Onjal village in Jalalpore taluka of Navsari. The encroachment and rebuilding of an 'ashram' were carried out on old revenue survey number 858/1. The nearby Onjal village has a population of 5,500, many of whom are said to be the followers of Asaram.

The followers allegedly erected a barbed wire fence on 6,000 square metres, a shed-like structure with paver blocks, and a 'havan kund' (sacred fire pit) in the area. Frequent prayer meetings were also said to be held there over the past few months, they added.

After finding out about the encroachment, District Collector Manish Gurwani ordered the local officials to launch a demolition at the same spot.

Acting on the orders, Jalalpore Mamlatdar M G Isarani and police went to Onjal on Wednesday afternoon and razed the illegal structures. Isarani said: "In 2013, the district administration demolished shed structures at the same place."

Cash gone, records intact: No bail to SBI officer who 'siphoned' Rs 1.93 cr

HC cites CCTV, phone location, and financial trails against accused to deny him bail

Aditi Raja
Vadodara, August 20

A CASH officer of the State Bank of India (SBI) in Gujarat allegedly manipulated ATM and bank records to siphon off Rs 1.93 crore while the bank's system continued to show the cash as deposited. The Gujarat High Court has rejected his second successive bail plea, calling it a "serious white-collar economic offence".

Justice H D Suthar rejected the bail plea of Bangmoy Chakravarti, who has been in custody since November 28, 2025, in connection with an FIR registered at Rajpipla Police Station in Narmada district under provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita and the Prevention of Corruption Act.

How the cash was withdrawn

According to the prosecution, Chakravarti was responsible for withdrawing cash from SBI's currency chest at its Rajpipla branch and loading it into ATMs and cash deposit machines across the town. Investigators said he instead used his administrative credentials to manipulate the balances displayed by the ATM systems, allowing him to withdraw cash while leaving the machines showing the minimum required balance.

He allegedly concealed the shortfall by making entries in the bank's Core Banking System showing that cash had been deposited when, according to the prosecution, it had not.

The court order records four alleged withdrawals: Rs 39.98 lakh from the SBI ATM at Rajpipla Station Road; Rs 39.92 lakh from the ATM at Swaminarayan Gurukul, Poicha; Rs 62 lakh from ATM No. 4656624; and Rs 51.64 lakh from ATM No. 4656625 at Santosh Chowkdi.

Investigators traced the allegedly misappropriated money to Chakravarti's accounts and to accounts of people described as his relatives in Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, and Jharkhand. The money was subsequently moved through UPI, RTGS, and NEFT transactions to accounts with ICICI Bank. The investigation has so far traced transactions worth about Rs 2.34 crore, according to the prosecution, which is being probed.

Digital trail

Investigators also found what the court described as a significant digital trail.

Chakravarti was transferred to Nasvadi branch in the neighbouring Chhota Udepur district on October 17, 2025. However, his Cash Officer ID and password allegedly remained active until November 6. Investigators found irregular entries dated October 28, October 30, and November 3.

The court also noted that CCTV footage allegedly placed Chakravarti at the relevant ATMs at the time in question, while his phone location data was said to match the ATMs' locations.

The defence argued that Chakravarti had been falsely implicated and that the investigation was complete, the chargesheet had been filed, and there was nothing further to recover. His lawyer also pointed out that he had no criminal antecedents.

The State opposed bail, arguing that the case involved the alleged siphoning of a substantial amount from SBI. It claimed that Chakravarti had absconded after the offence and had allegedly taken assistance from the local police in Jharkhand before being apprehended by the Gujarat Police.

The prosecution also expressed apprehension that his release could enable him to tamper with evidence or influence witnesses.

What HC said

The Gujarat High Court considered the state's view and cited Supreme Court precedents. The court said that economic offenders who escape justice leave "the entire community aggrieved," and such offences are "committed with cool calculation and deliberate design" for personal profit, "regardless of the consequence to the community."

The court also drew on the CBI case against YS Jagan Mohan Reddy and said "economic offences constitute a class apart," calling for a stricter approach to bail.

The court added that personal liberty is not absolute where it risks jeopardising the rights of others and those involving deep-rooted conspiracy and huge financial loss "are required to be viewed seriously and examined differently."

The court also noted that the case was not based merely on statements of co-accused or suspicion. It referred to the CCTV footage, mobile-location data, and financial trail collected during the investigation.

It also said the possibility of tampering could not be ruled out given the electronic and financial nature of the evidence.

SUICIDE OF PG STUDENT OVER 'RAGGING'

Govt suspends head of microbiology dept at Surat medical college

Health department also issues a show-cause notice to Surat Government Medical College Dean Dr Jayesh Brahmabhatt

Express News Service
Surat, August 20

THE GUJARAT health department has suspended Dr Sumaiya Mulla, the head of Microbiology Department, Government Medical College, Surat, for 90 days in connection with the alleged suicide death of a first-year postgraduate medical student, Dr Harsh Pandya, on August 9.

Mulla has to spend her suspension period at Government Medical College, Vadodara, a government release said on Thursday.

The health department also issued a show-cause notice to Surat Government Medical College (GMC) Dean Dr Jayesh Brahmabhatt.

Dr Pandya, a first-year Microbiology student, was found dead at his hostel room on the GMC campus on August 9. According to sources, two days before the suicide incident, all 10 students of the first-year Microbiology department, including Pandya, had gone to meet the head of the department, Dr. Sumaiya Mulla, to make a representation about alleged ragging by their seniors, but she was not available. These students later made representations to a faculty member, Dr Sangita Rajdev, and informed her about alleged ragging incidents. However, no steps had been taken, sources said.

According to the government release, the decision to suspend Dr Mulla was taken by Health Minister Praful Pansheriya. The health minister stated that ragging or mental harassment of students would not be tolerated in any educational or medical institutions in Gujarat.

"The state government has a 'zero tolerance' policy against ragging and will ensure that such incidents do not happen in future," the minister said in the release.

"During the period of suspension, Dr Sumaiya Mulla's headquarters will be Government Medical College, Vadodara. She will not be able to leave the headquarters in Vadodara without the written permission of the competent officer. She will not be able to engage in any private job or business during the suspension period. If these conditions are violated, the subsistence allowance payable to her will be stopped and additional strict disciplinary action will be taken," the release said.

Police case against 4 students

After the suicide death, the GMC had constituted an anti-ragging committee, which submitted its report to the dean accusing four senior microbiology students of ragging. Based on the report, the accused students -- Nirali Vasave, Anuj Maheshwari, Dishita Gevariya and Hina Bhut -- were suspended from the institute for six months on August 10. The four senior resident doctors were booked on charges of wrongful confinement and causing mental harassment in an FIR registered at Khatodara police station based on a complaint filed by GMC dean Dr Jayesh Brahmbhatt, citing the findings of the anti-ragging committee.

The accused doctors were booked under BNS Sections 127 (2) (whoever wrongfully confines any person), 352 (intentional insults intended to provoke a breach of the public peace) and 54 (person who helped or encouraged a crime is also present when it happens) and relevant sections of the Atrocity Act.

Two of the accused students — Dr Anuj Maheshwari (29), a resident of Althan in Surat and native of Uttar Pradesh, and Dr Dishita Ghevariya (29), a resident of GMC hostel and native of Bhavnagar in Gujarat – appeared before police on August 14. Police allowed them to go home after recording their statements. The two other accused students are yet to be present before the police.

Talking to The Indian Express, Khatodara police inspector N V Bharvad said, "Dr Nirali Vasave and Dr Hina Bhut are absconding. We have sent our teams to locate them, but they were not found."

They met on Grindr, checked into Vadodara hotel; four hours later, one man was dead

Aditi Raja
Vadodara, August 20

THEY MET on Grindr, and checked into a Vadodara hotel at 3am. By 7am, one of the men was dead.

What began as a private late-night rendezvous has now turned into a police investigation into the events that unfolded after a sudden power cut allegedly led to a fall inside the room. The two men, both from Vadodara and belonging to different faiths, had been in touch by WhatsApp after meeting on Grindr, the free dating app for the GTBQ community a few months back, police said.

The men arrived at Hotel Vintage Inn in Dandia Bazaar around 3 am on Wednesday, police said.

This was their second in-person meeting since they got to know each other. They were assigned Room 304 in the hotel, police said.

At some point after the men entered the room, the power supply in the room apparently went off. In the darkness, one of the men allegedly attempted to go towards the washroom, stumbled and fell, and suffered injuries to his head and his forehead. Since their room was without electricity, the men approached the hotel staff and requested a solution, police said. The staff moved them to another room – Number 302.

Around 7 am, one of the men rushed up to the hotel reception in a panic, and asked the staff to urgently call an ambulance, police said. Something had happened to his companion, the man said.

The hotel staff immediately called both the 108 emergency service and the police. The ambulance team and police entered the room, and found the other man – the one who had sustained the alleged injury hours ago – dead. His body was sent to Sayaji Hospital for a post mortem examination.

Police have said they had so far found no visible injury marks on the body, nor any signs of a struggle. "There are no injury marks or signs of a struggle. We are questioning (the surviving man)," Raopura Police Inspector D J Patel said.
