

Mullakadu shipyard project: Saltpan workers and producers hold protest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Thoothukudi

HUNDREDS of saltpan workers and producers on Monday held a protest at the collectorate opposing the proposed ship-building project at the Mullakadu-Kovalam beach.

The leaders of the protest petitioned Collector Vishu Mahajan who chaired the weekly grievance redressal meeting at the collectorate.

Over 2,000 persons including the salt pan lessees of 'poramboke' lands, patta land holders, and saltpan workers participated in the agitation against the state government proposal to allocate the poramboke lands leased for salt pans for ship building project on behalf of a joint venture formed between the SIPCOT and the Union Ministry of Shipping.

Condemning the state government for pushing the project to the saltpan areas of Mullakadu, the lessees said that it is unethical to replace the salt-erns with a multinational ship-building industry. They also rejected the district administration's allocation of land parcel belonging to SIPCOT for developing salt pans at Vaippar village in order to rehabilitate and resettle those who need to be displaced for the project.

Kovalam Pasuntharai small-scale salt producers association secretary P Sekar outrightly denied the district administration's package of alternative land and compensation for the salt producers. Calling it an eye wash, he said that the district administration must relocate the ship building project to Vaippar, where the sea depth is 30 feet, while it is 14 ft deep at Mullakadu. The ship building project will affect the fishing activity and cause pollution, he alleged. LR Sivakar, one of the leaders of the agitation, said the TVK government is keen on focusing on shipbuilding projects, disregarding the interests of the salt producers. "If the district administration did not consider our reasonable demands, the agitation would acquire the magnitude of the anti-Sterlite agitation," he warned.

Amirthammal, a salt pan worker, said they have been working for three generations at the salters of Mullakadu. It has been a viable place for salt production and employment. The shipbuilding project will immediately affect their livelihood, he said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

Panayankurichi residents demand closure of three 'polluting' quarries

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tirunelveli

RESIDENTS of Panayankurichi village near Ambasamudram demanded the district administration to cancel the licences of three stone quarries operating around their village. They alleged that the quarries have been causing severe environmental damage, depleting groundwater and damaging roads.

The residents submitted a petition to District Collector Anand Mohan at the grievance redressal meeting on Monday.

The villagers stated that over 2,000 people live in Panayankurichi and that agriculture is their primary source of livelihood.

"The quarries operating near agricultural lands are violating mining rules, affecting the village's ecology and public safety. The repeated blasting of high-power unauthorised explosives has resulted in cracks in our houses. The continuous quarrying has adversely affected groundwater levels. About 500 acres of farmland is losing the irrigation facility," they alleged.

They further claimed that heavy trucks transporting stones have badly damaged the village's narrow roads, and created safety risks for schoolchildren and others. The petition also raised concerns over air and noise pollution. "The dust from the quarry has formed layers on our crops, resulting in withering. The residents suffer respiratory problems. The district administration should revoke the permissions granted to the quarries and close them permanently," the villagers demanded.

In Tenkasi, BJP district president Ananthan Ayyasamy and his party functionaries petitioned District Collector Ranjeet Singh requesting permanent closure for the farmers of Therku Sathiram to desilt and strengthen the tank bund. "Though the tank belongs to Thiruvavaduthurai Adheenam, the farmers are prepared to bear the entire cost themselves and seek only the district administration's approval," he said in his petition.

Ananthan also demanded immediate intervention of the collector to protect the livelihoods of 1,300 families dependent on traditional brick kilns at Kandi-gaiperi, Pannaivanamperi, Periyur, Vasudevanallur, Sankaran kovil and surrounding villages while ensuring compliance with environmental norms through a fair and practical approach.

Render state song first at MSU convocation: MP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tirunelveli

TIRUNELVELI MP C Robert Bruce on Monday condemned the decision of Manonmaniam Sundaranar University (MSU) authorities to relegate the singing of the State Song 'Tamil Thai Vaazhthu' after the National Song 'Vande Mataram' and the National Anthem during its 33rd convocation on Tuesday.

The Congress MP also claimed Higher Education Minister P Viswanathan, who belongs to the Congress, would not participate in the event.

However, when TNIE contacted him, Viswanathan confirmed that he would take part in the convocation.

On July 24, MSU Vice-Chancellor N Chandrasekar announced that Tamil Thai Vaazhthu would be sung third as directed by the office of Governor RV Arlekar. In a statement, Bruce termed the decision undemocratic and said it was unacceptable that "Tamil Thai Vaazhthu" would be sung third at a university named after Manonmaniam Sundaranar, who penned the song.

He recalled that Tamil Thai Vaazhthu, published in 1891, has been the State song of Tamil Nadu since 1970. "Rellegating it to the third position amounts to disrespecting its author. I urge the varsity to restore the long-standing practice of singing Tamil Thai Vaazhthu first, failing which the convocation should be cancelled," he demanded. Meanwhile, Kadayannallur legislator T M Rajendran of the
